JUDGMENT FOR $18,000

RULING AGAINST D. B. CLARKE, SURETY FOR T. E. WAGGAMAN.

Judgment for $18,000 has been given by Justice Anderson in Circuit Court No. 2 against Dr. Daniel B. Clarke, surety on a bond of Thos. E. Waggaman, for the faithful performance by Waggaman of his duties as trustee appointed by the court to conduct the sale of certain real estate. Judgment was granted on the motion of counsel for Mattle McC. Hine and others, who sued on the bond for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense. An appeal will be taken from the decision of Justice Ander-son tof the Court of Appeals of the District Waggaman was appointed to sell certain real estate, the proceeds to go to Mattle McC. Hine and others, according to their respective interests. Sale was made and $8,147.72, the proceeds, was placed in Waggaman's hands. He was ordered to disburse the money by the court, but failed to do so. Shortly after the failure of Waggaman suit was instituted on the bond, on which Dr. Clarke appeared as surety. The answer of Dr. Clarke and the ac-companying affidavit of defense set up the contention that owing to the peculiar form of the devise contained in the will by which the plaintiffs took title to the property a court of equity was without jurisdiction to decree a sale. It was also contended that one of the plaintiffs had, subsequent to the sale, agreed with Waggaman that he should invest the money, and this agreement, it was urged, operated to release the surety

In overruling both contentions and grant-ing the motion for judgment Justice Anderson said: "Even if the court was without jurisdiction over the real estate, the bond sued on is a valid common-law obligation

CASES OF SMALLPOX.

Three Additional Patients Under Health Office Care.

The health office has taken under its care three more smallpox cases since vesterday's report. One of them is the case of Mrs. Jane R. Taylor, who is between seventy and seventy-five years of age, and resides at 905 4th street southeast. The infection is said to be traceable to her son, whom she nursed recently while he was ill with the disease. Her house was quarantined and Mrs. Taylor watched. As soon as the disease appeared in her she was removed to the hospital.

Another case that presents more of a problem is that of Mrs. Bertha M. Entwisel, twenty-eight years of age, of 310 Jefferson street, Anacostia. No definite in-fection has been established, but it is supposed she was in contact with patients in the vicinity of Twining City. William Groves, thirty-five years old, who lives at 13754 L street southeast, has also been stricken with the disease and removed to the hospital. His case, it is stated, is traceable to others in the immediate neighborhood. No one of these three patients named had ever been successfully vaccinated.

THE THEATER.

The Columbia. "Still Waters Run Deep," that good old comedy by Tom Taylor, which has been played so many times without wearing out, was presented at the Columbia Theater last night by Guy Standing and his stock company. As usual, the old play held the attention and the interest of the auditors from beginning to end, a tribute not alone to the merits of the piece itself, but also to the manner in which it was presented. As Mildmay, the man who is roused to action to dispose of his arch enemy, Guy Standing was excellent. He showed little or no self-consciousness, was earnest and sincere and made the difficult role a most attractive one. Jeffreys Lewis, as Mrs. Sternhold, the aunt of energetic will power, who dominates things until brought to bay by the awakened Mildmay, was superb. Hawksley, the unscrupulous adventurer, was very well played indeed by Hall McAlister, and W. H. Crompton was congenially cast as Mr. Potter. Dorothy Hammond, the wife whose honor is guarded by her husband, the indulgent but determined Mildmay was great and charming and her husband, the indulgent but determined Mildmay, was sweet and charming, and Malcom Duncan distinguished herself in the part of an affected society snob, Langford. Additional honors came to George Gaston, who played the part of Dunbilk, a most amusing Ceit. The minor roles were well taken by Gilbert Miller, Samuel Klawans and Charles Walton. The entire prowans and Charles Walton. The entire pro-duction was well received and apparently made a most favorable impression upon the audience. The scenic accessories were entirely adequate.

Belasco Theater.

"The Adventures of Lady Ursula," at the Belasco last evening, gave Miss Odette Tyler an excellent opportunity to display her company of players under the glamour and charm of a costume play, clever in its situations and full of sparkling wit. Since the days when the "Dolly Dia-loquers" first awakened a du'l public to the possibilities of an art of conversation and gave telling evidence of the manner in which the game can be carried on between a charming woman and a witty man, there has been a constant demand for the kind of thing that Anthony Hope fabricates, and there is no failure of supply in the "Adventures of Lady Ursula." Here Hope is at his best with a rollicking eleverness of line that flirts with equal scarcasm and tenderness about the whims, foibles and passions of his personages, and hits off a situation with epigrams that stick in the memory.

Perhaps the keenest interest afforded by the succession of plays offered by Miss Ty-ler's company is the opportunity they give for versatility to come to the front.

The piquancy and audacity of Lady Ursula Barrington is charmingly presented by Miss Tyler, whose impersonation of her absent brother is a delicious mixture of conflicting emotions.

Sir George Sylvester, in the hands of Wilson Melrose, was at once the direful duellist and engaging lover, qualities Sothern used to present so well in the days when to be a perfect lover seemed the apex of his ambition. The part loses nothing in Mr. Melrose's treatment, and his fine voice alds in creating the impression of Sir George's engaging force. Excellent also was the ministerial lack of dignity of Fuller Mellish, whose Rev. Mr. Blimboe was unusually full of satire and point. Others in the cast to give distinction were Blanche Stoddard, Mrs. J. P. West, Guy Coombs, William Tarker and George Parker, the general effect of whose work made the performance a source of constant amusement, while the satire on the entire duelling code was vividly presented.

New National Theater.

Washington singers presented "The Bohemian Girl' at the National Theater last night. The popularity of the tuneful opera and the interest in the singers attracted an audience which comfortably filled the theformance, the principals were applauded chorus was applauded for its spirit. The majority of the players are students in the music and dramatic classes of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans Greene.

Miss Dorothy Dolan was Arline. She is a sprightly little lady and threw a good deal of animation and some degree of naturalness into the recital of her lines. Her singing of "I Dreamt I Dwelt" was redemanded, and in other parts of the opera she called from the audience expressions of satisfaction. The young lady's voice, while not a big organ, has a pleasing yric quality.

Tom Greene sang Thaddeus, the tenor and the hero. He was compelled to repeat "You'll Remember Me" by the emphatic encore, and his acting of the role was received with favor. In all his solos and the concerted work, too, he was effective and showed the result of his professional experience. experience.
Count Arnheim was played by G. S.

Waldo, who made his most pronounced hit, as all the Arnheims do, with the "Heart Bowed Down." Mr. Waldo sustained his part very creditably. Mrs. Zenayde Hutton Brown was excellent as the queen of the gypsies. Harry Stevens made a good impression as Florestein, and W. C. Stump as Devilshoof showed the result of earnest practice. Karl Block as captain of the guard, Virginia Daddysman as Buda, ...line's attendant; G. R. Scott as a gypsy and little Kathryne Hodgkin did well what they had to do. The orchestra, under the direction of T. M. Leightner, was capable. The nobles, gypsies, soldiers, retainers and peasants were Bernice Moore, Delia Foster, Sadie Bailey, Louise Lieutard, Katherine Parker, Frances Leary, Pearl Bain, Louise Worden, Agnes Greene Farnum, Jennie Balzer. Marie Young, Virginia Daddysman, Edna Gaines, Lilian Tolson, Kathryn Franklin, Edith Becker, Mary Wild, Emma Wolfe, Josephine Hall, Cora Troxell, Margaret Durphy, Eleanor gess, Melita Spelshouse, Gertrude Lyddane, Marie E. McKevitt, Carrie Loeb, Pearl Darby, Pearl Scott, George Sabourin, New-ton Hammer, Carl Judd, Gale Judd, H. F. Gustine. John R. Adams, C. A. Reeves, Carter Cook, G. R. Scott, Frank Nolte, J. W. Plake, H. S. Burbank, Dan Roche. One of the most effective incidents was the dance during the fete by several of Miss Cora Shreve's pupils.

These amateurs will hold the stage at the National all the week, singing "The Bohemian Girl," "Chimes of Normandy"

and "Il Trovatore."

Academy of Music. The attraction at the Academy of Music this week is "Sis Hopkins," which appears in this city for the seventh season, and from the hearty applause and an attendance that packed the playhouse it has lost none of its popularity. Miss Rose Melville is again seen in the title role, portraving the simple country girl of Posey county, Ind., to perfection. The story of "Sis Hopkins" is one of sweet simplicity and gentle omor throughout. It tells of the life of Sis, her courtship by a man who wants to win her love and get possession of her land, her discovery of this, her going to Europe "to learn to be like other people," and her coming back an accomplished, well-gowned woman. In the meantime her old father has lost his mind and does not know her until she appears in her old farm clothes singing "Annie Laurie."
Frank Minzey as Ridy Scarboro, the young lawyer, shares with "Sis" in the applause and gives a splendid portrayal of the honest sweetheart. J. T. Ray, as Obadiah Odlum, an agent for a casket maker, makes a hit by his witty sayings. Others in the cast

"I am never without Cuticura Soan and Cuticura Ointment since I tried them last summer. About it began to get worse all the time, and then I be gan to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors, but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body wouldsbegin to itch, and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body, and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out, but I continue to use the Cuticura on my scalp. It keeps all dandruff out and scalp is always clean. I always use Cuticura Ointment on my face after shaving, and have found nothing to equal it. I will never be without it." D. E.
